

I hope you are well. As you are aware, my firm represents the UN-recognized Government of the National Accord of Libya. The week of October 21st, the Governor of the Central Bank of Libya, Mr. Saddek Omar Elkaber, will be in Washington, D.C. for a series of meetings. Through Governor Elkaber's leadership, the Bank has experienced a positive performance despite the ongoing conflict in Libya.

Given the recent attention to discussions centered around the convening of a conference in Berlin to discuss the path forward for Libya, I believe Governor Elkaber's visit to Washington is timely. Governor Elkaber can highlight the best practices and good governance of the Libyan Central Bank. Through the display of this strong performance, Governor Elkaber will share how the Libyan Central Bank has positively impacted their nation's economy. Furthermore, Governor Elkaber is a credible voice on the Libyan economy and can provide insight on the monetary policies that provide the greatest influence on economic growth for the region. I understand this is an incredibly busy time of year on Capitol Hill, but I hope there is room on your calendar to meet with Governor Elkaber. Would you have time to meet either October 21st or 22nd?

As background, I have attached Governor Elkaber's bio and his recent op-ed in The Banker.

Thank you in advance for your consideration of this request. Please don't hesitate to contact me if you have any questions. I look forward to hearing from you.
